A CORRESPONDENT OF One of the Northern contemporaries repently wrote a bitter complaint against the unprincipled fabrications of the lying denards as to the disturbances in Northern China which have appeared in the form of telegraphic news in the home papers. The compleme is undoubtedly well-founded. Telegrams of the most alarming nature appeared in newspapers of high-standing, newspapers which, not without reason; are predited with aparing no trouble or axpunes to insure the absolute required of the latelligence which they convey to their reders. It was only natural that there telegrams should to accepted by the public as substantially true. To a great extent the securacy of what is published as news out be insured; but even the most influential journals, as regards telegrams concerning what transpires co for distant as the North of Chine, must be entirely at the mercy of their correspondents; and it is unfortunate that the grape of the country-people in China was accepted, as gospel and made the less of these rumours. The report of a general rising and massacre of Christians and Korppense in Manchuria was a fair tample of what the correspondent in For Orthor can de when he permits his desire for the production of sometional copy to outrum both his discretion and life sense of responsibility. It is no wonder that anxious telegrams from friends at home were reserved by Europeans resident in that part of the Chinese empire where the general rising and measure of Christians. and Europeans' was alleged to have taken place. We would remind our teaders that the performance which was to have been given on Saturday, 16th inst, and which was postponed on account of the death of the Duke of Clarence, will be given to-morrow evening.

Ir is stated that the petroleum producers at Bake have entered into a combination for regulating the sale of the oil abroad on their joint account. Under this agreement, they will jointly pay the ruitway charges an far as Batoum. The quality of the oil for export will be decided upon between them; and a uniform price will be charged.

THE FALSETTO VOICE. - Mr E. Davidson Palmer. Mus. Bac. Oron., calls the attention of scientific men to an apparently unknown fact in connection with voice production. The fact has to do with the so-called falsetto voice. The general opinion about this kind of voice is that it is something altogether unnatural, and that it ought never to be used. According to modern scientific theories, however, it is one of two or more registers, and is the drainage of 653 buildings had been supposed to be intended by nature to be completed, leaving 198 in hand. THE TEMPER OF ANIMALS. Animal temper, says a writer in the

Spectator, is naturally pacific, and mild. Bad temper is the privilege of more highly organised hatures; and the mild recentment of the plamble tiger finds its development in the speplastic, fury of the mandril and the measured malios of mankind Horace's suggestion, that Promethous added to the ill-temper of man the strength of a mad lion, must be taken literally. general law of good-nature in the animal world makes the exceptions all the more remarkable. Quarrelsome species specie among a friendly tribe, just as an ill-tempered individual does in a kindly species. The ruminants are a most peaceful race, yet deer are savage, and so is that handsome Indian antelope the nylghau. tume stag is a vory dangerous pet, and even the beautiful roobuck has been known to kill a boy in a wild fit of rage. But the hercest and most vindictive of all with the exception of the Cape buffalo, is the South African gnu, which never loses its ill-temper when tamed, and always remains among the fow dangerous animals which the keepers at the Zoo have to deal with. Blardly less ill-tempered are the zebras and the wild asses, which mygests that human mismanagement is not entirely to blame for the occasional ill-temper and obstinacy of mules and donkeys. To the ill-tempered species we may add the camel and the two-horned black rhinoceros. The last is really ferocious, charging down on any tion, and capable of inflicting mortal wounds even on the lion, the elephant, or its own kind. But among all the larger creatures of the animal kingdom, it is difficult to find more than a dozen species which are, as a class, ill-tempered, unless we include all those carnivorous animals which exhibit a certain ferocity in the capture of their prey. But it will be found that, apart from this law of their being, such animals are not, as a rule, either ill-tempered or malicious. On the contrary, their natural bias is them when actually striking their proy, years at least. a particular necessity than an es-

MARK TWAIN AMONG THE PROPHETS.

HOW HE DISCOVERED TELEPATHY. It is one of the misfortunes of being first-olass humourist, says the Revisur Reviews, that, no matter how serious you may be, everybody will believe you are oking. Mark Twain has estublished reputation on both sides of the Atlantic as a first-class joker, so that no one will take seriously, as he means it to be taken, his article in Harper's for December. Mr Clemens has for many years been a memof the Psychical Research Society. chiefly on account of his own telepathic experience. In this article in Harper's he b en his telepathic experiences, and extraordinarily detailed has been the comnunication (in some cases) of the brain messages between himself and his friends. MENTAL TELEGRAPHY.

He claims to be the original discoverer o telepathy, on obscure science which the Psychical Research Society have done much to elucidate. He says :-I made this discovery sixteen or seventeen yours ago; and gave it a manie-Mental Tolography. It is the same thing around the onter edges of which the Psychical Society of England began to Judging from his oranial development, grope (and play with) four or five years replied the phrenologist, breaking it as ago, and which they named 'Telepathy.' gently as he could, 'I think he would make Within the last two or three years they have a good parachute jumper. penetrated leward the heart of the matter, bowever, and have found out that mind. This age does seem to have exhausted invention nearly ; still it his one important contract on its hands yet the invention of the phresophone; that is to hay, a method whereby the communicating of mind with mind may be brought under command and reduced to certainty and system. The telegraph and the telephone are going to become too slow and wordy for our needs. We must have the thought itself shot into our minds from a distance; then, if we need to put it into words, we can do that tedious work at our leisure. Doubtless the something which conveys our thoughts through the air from brain to brain is a finer and subtler form of electricity, and all we need do is to find out how to capture it and how to force it to do its work, as we have had to do in the case of the el ctric currents. Before the day of telegraphs wither of those marvels would have seemed any canor to achieve than the other.

BE mine, Amanda, and I'll treat you like an angel. I darosay! Nothing to est and still less to wear!

THE phrenologist ran his hands rapidly over the boy's head, reflected a moment and tried it gain, but more slawly. Well, professor, said the boy's father, what calling do you find him best fitted for?

SHE: 'I'm so glad you can stay to tes. husband! He's always growling about my cooking, and to-day his mother happened to drop in and I got ber to make some cakes. Won't he feel foolish when he begins to criticise and then finds out that his mother made them herself? Half an hour later. He: My dear, you are becoming an angel of a cook. These cakes are as fine as my mother makes."
